Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Monday, January 22, 2007 – 4:00 p.m.

The Medium: "O my Master, may the blessed time come back soon, the time of discovery of the world of the Spirit, when my heart was floating by your side, happy, brimming with freedom and, especially, with a more subtle approach to our Beloved, Babuji Maharaj."

Times are different from each other, but they all carry a different type of energy that quickly connects us with the place where fusion can take place between our hearts.

"It all changes, in us and around us. Evolving entails conforming to the present moment and valuing its constructive contribution to each situation where the divine life manifests itself."

"My son, it is wise to live for the present, with gratitude for what it offers in terms of future prospects. Your contacts take place in a different manner, but they generate another story, abundantly rich and yet leaving few traces at this level of perception. A door is opening; another is closing, jealously keeping its secrets that are not to be revealed here below. Nothing can be forced at this stage when people's consciousness is opening up. The divine laws operate in the background; they pave the way of the future, in an irreversible way."

Babuji

"This long journey in the mysteries of knowledge, in your company – O Master, so much revered – refined our perceptions and increased our need to deepen what emerges from a world that leaves us puzzled in the face of its diversity and its vibratory subtlety. Only you can reveal their various aspects to us, beyond all that which our understanding has already grasped. Our hearts fully surrendered to you are overjoyed by your luminous presence. Here, you reveal us to ourselves. This reality escapes us on Earth; it allows us to deepen our understanding of phenomena, the complexity and power of which Earthmen cannot imagine, as man is so small in the face of it. Glory to God!"
