Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

The Medium: "O my Master, you guide me towards the enchanted shores where 'the Beloved', in all His majesty, is waiting for us – majesty which gives him a divine power that is constantly growing in him. Dazzled, we perceive the extent of our capabilities a little more each time. As the Great Master Lalaji one day told him: 'Nature is standing naked before you. This condition could not be acquired even by the so-called Great.'* Adorned with magnificence, so was he already."

My daughter, your Master also has grown; hence his allure to your heart – won over and inhabited by him – to advance a quest extending to the Infinite. Your duet delights my heart; it was planned so. Your reservations were only human, thus of no importance. The human being, confined to appearances and a victim of this illusory world, suffers more than he chooses in many circumstances. Your destiny was to glorify love, following the footsteps of your Master and under his protection. Your hearts won over by our care are united in this mystical epic, which will delight more than one sensitive soul. Remain trustful and surrendered, according to our wishes."

"Thus carried on the wings of love, how could my heart not be overjoyed. Our Beloved brings it utmost jubilation. A heart so close to my heart in its ultimate struggles in this world and together glorifying divine love – what else in this life could we hope for that would be nobler and greater!

"Being overjoyed beyond expectations, the soul is delighted in him; let us be carried away as he thinks best. Whatever the destination, his divine heart is enough for us. God in his infinite goodness bestows a unique present upon us. Let us leave to him to organise our future, only his will matters. May our delighted souls eternally bathe in His light."
