Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Friday, February 16, 2007 – 10:00 a.m.

On Earth, nothing lasts, except this form of divinised love emanating from the source. Inexhaustible, inalterable in its essence since the origin, it chooses the heart of any human willing to receive it. By degrees, it manages to win the heart over and no longer leaves it, bringing it to an intense devotion that can be expressed in various ways and very subtly. Happy are the hearts imbued by Him; they are part of a great chain, reflecting the sublime Power that inspires it. May all our brothers and sisters feed on it profusely and understand that in this world nothing can match it.

"When finally, here below, the reign of the Spirit is established, the way of love will influence the most implacable ones; this is in the nature of things."

Babuji

"We have this unique opportunity to express ourselves in this way. We are forerunners in this field and we must take advantage of the liking of our divine augurs. The time for accomplishment in this world is in the making; these writings, in some way, contribute to it by what they have divinely inspired, as is emphasised by our Great Babuji Maharaj, Master of our hearts. He knows the ways of God better than us, as well as the consequences of all that exists – especially of this nature. Let us surrender to Him, completely."

S.E.

The Medium: "The two pillars of the sacred temple are here; for my heart, they are both impressive and reassuring. In its extreme smallness, it turns to them, trustful, tired of useless struggles for worldly things that are not worth considering. Going to what is essential, while completely surrendering and offering love, is the only worthwhile goal."
