Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Saturday, February 24, 2007

Remain confident. Your path is difficult, but it does not curb your fervour whatsoever; this is of primary importance. Ordeals did not spare the greatest Beings who came on Earth, as you know. You studied the life of a certain number of them who set enlightening examples and influenced many hearts earnestly willing to be inspired by them. An incarnation is to some extent an end-of-year exam. Striving to take it as well as possible is a step where nothing should be neglected; it leads to finding one's way."

Babuji

"As emphasised by our Divine guide, suffering does not change the mystical fervour which characterises you. This is a strong point in your life, which is built on what is the essential.

"May the time of bliss and eternal praise come soon, the time when all will be nothing else but love in a universe of beauty. This time will come; it should be prepared. Even if many lives are necessary, one day, eventually, the divine goal is reached. This should be the objective of each human being, but nothing is simple in a matter of this kind. God's secrets are well kept; they are not revealed in this world of darkness, hence the confusion prevailing here below."

"Everything has to be deserved and earned little by little; the divine laws are like that. My very dear son, you are working on Earth towards an overall evolution, not only that of our brother and sister abhyasis, but that of the multitude that is thirsting for the Divine without even really understanding it. Many human beings are moving in this darkness in search of the Unutterable Splendour; their unremitting quest makes them advance towards the goal.

"May they all find the 'way' for an unquestionable evolution where the heart truly has all its rights! There lies the essence, there lies the beauty of the Immutable."
