Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Wednesday, February 28, 2007 – 4:00 p.m.

Let us forget for a while our physical bodies and their torments. A world of peace and love exists beyond the borders of this world where we have incarnated – truly a vast universe full of diversity where, thanks to our Beloved, we have our points of reference. In his great kindness, He awaits us, comforts us and provides us with His support. Otherwise, without Him, how would we have, some days, the strength to go on?"

The Medium: "My Master, being with you would be sweet for my heart, but my physical body refuses to make any effort that does not suit it. Though the effort of writing these few pages intended for you remains a priority. This is a privilege; therefore let the divine will prevail."

"Your mystical union will not take place without some effect on a physical body receptive to human suffering. Divine laws remain unfathomable, as so many wonders of amazing truth occur, unnoticed by humans.

"All has its raison d'être, the mystery remains on Earth as regards these very subtle and inescapable laws. Even great beings themselves cannot penetrate them entirely. The duration of an incarnation is short compared to eternity; a profound faith is the only strength left in the face of adversity. Be blessed, dear souls, as well as all those following us with confidence. Beyond the toughness of this world there is an elsewhere that is less trying. This time will come soon. One can win it after a brave struggle; we are helping you in this. May peace be in your hearts!"
