Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Thursday, March 15, 2007 – 4:00 p.m.

The Medium: "Like a herald at the head of a shining army, you captivate my heart intensely. You belong to the tradition of the great spiritual Masters of the past who preceded you in this world and contributed to a planned evolution of humanity."

Do you actually realise the importance of these messages? Their number is impressive and their future impact on hearts is currently beyond estimation. These writings reveal your true personality; it will not remain unknown indefinitely. As our Beloved has said: 'What must be will be'. Love us with this kind of love inspired from outside this world; it is nurtured by the divine source – hence its scarcity. Be blessed, my dear sister."

"Isn't this collection called 'Quintessence of the Spirit'! When it comes to a close, not only will the main thing have been said, but it will leave a subtle fragrance in the hearts – we are seeing to it.

'The distance we have come with these messages was fruitful in many respects, including the challenge of bringing you closer to one another. All is well henceforth; your hearts are in unison and are fulfilled in their respective missions. The day Sahaj Marg will take on its full scope in this world, people will find its story amazing in terms of its richness on all levels. Each one can find their spiritual food under the guidance of an enlightened Master.

"To you, my very dear son, the best. I entrust her to you: our preferred scribe and so precious to our hearts."
