Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Saturday, March 31, 2007 – 10:00 a.m.

The lightning flash of the Spirit unfolds endlessly. Being able to perceive this force while being incarnate in this world is a real feat which we owe to our highly Revered Guide.

"Thus is perpetuated the tradition of the spiritual Masters who succeed one another among mankind – in particular in India, a country where spirituality has been a tradition since time immemorial. Didn't Master Jesus himself come to Puri – the current name of the then Holy City – to initiate himself into new doctrines?"

"My son, you belong to this line of Great Beings who have to carry out a mission on Earth; yours is to raise our way to the highest in the current times. All is well, my dear son. We accompany you for that, with all our love.

"My daughter, rumours you have been hearing ever since you joined us do not matter. You never regarded me as your Master, you always and fully considered my son as your Master. Our relationship is very different, but it is not possible to define it here. What people around him express, sometimes excessively, does not necessarily denote profound and real respect.

"In their own manner, each one gives what they can according to their progress and conviction of being on the right track. This had to be said. Keep giving us this rare love. It is precious and it embellishes your path in the footsteps of your Master. Be at peace."
