Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Rest assured, your Master did not put it like that as far as the messages are concerned. Reading one of them as a group cannot be prohibited. It is desirable, and it is regrettable to forbid it without valid reason when it is suggested by an abhyasi. The behaviour and comments of some of our aspirants are often more detrimental to the Mission than the reading of these writings – and this is not a new situation. For those who are not convinced – be they newcomers or old members insufficiently committed – anything is used as a pretext for not continuing when their motivation is low.

"These reactions are only human and are not reserved for our way; that is how it goes. Our system keeps making its way into the hearts as planned; this is the main thing.

"Concealing these messages under the pretext of not displeasing some people would not help them. For all, time is running out. Minds must open out, on pain of definitely regressing in this era of planned transformation whose process is irresistible. We cannot force anybody, but only help the greatest number who are actually willing to advance towards the goal. We are seeing to this. May all be helped and enlightened for the future of humanity."
