Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Tuesday, October 2, 2007 – 10:00 a.m.

Two strong personalities could only unite in the service of the Divine. Without this extraordinary strength, how, in your respective roles, would you have coped with your obligations?

"Overwhelming for a human being, my son's obligations comply with the requirements of the moment, heralding the rigour of future times. Everything must be put into action. Foreshadowing a new era, our way, in its current direction, must adapt to the times. As per future changes and in compliance with appropriate broadmindedness, humanity will have to largely overcome its current narrow-mindedness. So as not to lose himself, man must progress while looking towards the future where unprecedented prospects, in terms of many areas of knowledge, are being offered to him. We are insisting a lot, but so many things are being said on the issue. Many comments are made on the future of humanity, but of particular interest to us here is the spiritual preparation of our aspirants, with a view to a change of vibrational level, with which the human being will have to cope. We are going in this direction. That is the way it goes."
