Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Saturday, October 13, 2007 – 10:00 a.m.

My child, you are emerging into life, an imperishable one, the divine life in its fullest magnificence. Open your heart completely; we are adorning it with the most beautiful luminosity in this blessed circumstance.

"Let love overwhelm you and carry you away, far from this world where you are subjected to the evils inherent in this one. Regain stature and overcome your ordeals; they are only temporary. Your ideal is elsewhere, you know it, and it develops each day, under our ceaseless blessings.

"So, please taste, relish this love and love us, above all."

(Later)

"These messages, which you consider as 'personal', have their raison d'être and as such, they should no longer be hidden. One day, they will be put together and they will help to better understand certain aspects of the long history of these messages, when, in the future, they are thoroughly studied. More than anywhere else, nothing is vain in this domain, so do not forget it."
