Monday, June 14, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

You are all children of God, without distinction. Do not slow down your progress by continuing to have reactions of the type we have just mentioned. Get rid of all these stupid clichés about differences.

A day will come when all people will consider themselves as complementary and part of a big family.

This is not for tomorrow; let's dream of future times when harmony will reign on Earth.

So, be tolerant and never think you are more important than you are.

My son will leave happy; the wings of the air, like a dove, carry him where he can act for the good of people and for peace.

He is doing very good work that cannot be evaluated in this material world.

He has found a change in people's minds. It should be emphasized that in recent months he has given so much of himself to obtain this result; may it continue.

We would like to see our work truly bear fruit for a greater number of abhyasis.

Things are moving, minds are opening up and the determination to move forward has overtaken laxity, which is still all too prevalent.

We cannot force you to move forward. We are very patient and understanding.

Know this once and for all, whatever we may say.
We want the best for you, that's all.

Babuji