Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Friday, December 7, 2007 – 10:00 a.m.

God's reasons are beyond humans. They ask why this? why that? – without understanding the laws governing this world, and whose sovereign principle escapes them.

"Your Master is also subjected to these laws, and humanly he can be surprised by their impact on his material life and that of his fellow creatures. The great secrets are not revealed here below; even the Chosen Ones do not access them in their entirety. The veil of illusion characterises this world. Being incarnate entails being amenable to these laws, inexorably. At some time in their lives on Earth, the greatest sons of God had to wait and see, haunted by a great feeling of uncertainty. An implacable faith was their only bastion, the surest one. The divine omnipotence provides for it, without worrying about human ponderings which are irrelevant in the face of its great intentions, inescapable and decisive. That is the way it goes."
