Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Wednesday, January 23, 2008 – 10:00 a.m.

How can we be weary of a song of love faithfully repeated? Complaints rise towards us all the time, expressing nothing else. A faithful heart goes on its way without expecting anything more than to love and to write. Reading such may perhaps encourage our aspirants to follow this way of love.

"It will become the hallmark of Sahaj Marg, satisfying all those who follow this way of love without really expressing it. Laws and rules are to be observed for the smooth running of an important Mission like ours, without excluding what will become its distinctive hallmark. My son and his successor will maintain this sacred flame, in a world that is so tough and hostile towards man. Our Mission will become the spiritual refuge they will need to face up to things. It is up to each one of our brothers and sisters to let their inner best express itself, by uniting with this extraordinary force, the importance of which they have neglected for too long.

"A lifetime on Earth is short; may they all realise how very important their spiritual commitment is in the face of the precariousness of a momentary incarnation. Such is the wish of all of us here."
