Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Thursday, August 7, 2008 – 10:00 a.m.

Love stories like this one are endless; they change in form according to the times and the circumstances.

"This kind of energy is rare and useful for the development of a better world. Nothing is lost; that which is good endures and serves the forces of good. These writings are not a pastime; they have an importance the effects of which you cannot assess. A spiritual way like ours must leave a diversified spiritual capital. Time will highlight the attraction it exerts on hearts that are offered to the Divine. Far from ideologies, those great principles enacted by men, writings of this nature are connected with the essence of a being. Unpretentious in form, only the longing of the soul to manifest itself produces these pages, written with an utmost openness of the heart.

"Love – love is the key word, justifying this abundance of messages, offered to those who are willing to read them and derive invaluable benefits."
