Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Wednesday, October 1, 2008 – 4:00 p.m.

Our Beloved is right, smiling at life, whatever happens, is proof of love and detachment from the vicissitudes of life. Fear of the next day and of what it holds for us very often prevails, whereas we should overcome it and see only a higher reality, far beyond the tests of this world. All incarnate beings are confronted with this; each one reacts in their own way. The goal is to put things in perspective, but their human nature leads them to moments of weakness when they are affected by the fear of their becoming, such is their challenge here below. Historically, certain great Masters of the past left outstanding words revealing their moments of doubt, and even of despair in some circumstances, which does not change anything regarding their spiritual elevation. God is great; man is small in the face of his destiny, whatever it is.

"May all our brothers and sisters be blessed and strengthened in the face of life, in terms of its thousand and one worries."
