Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Saturday, October 18, 2008 – 10:00 a.m.

The Medium: "Can the divine heart of Beloved Babuji hear me today? Is it not deterred by the lassitude of a suffering physical body after all these years of complaints?"

How could it be? His body also experienced suffering, in his last reincarnation and previous ones, to a more or less high degree. Once properly understood, this suffering gives assured spiritual capital, not subjected to the fluctuations of Earthly goods. These assets are in a safe place; they are added to one another with passing time and constitute an appreciable value.

"Endure, my daughter, and offer this suffering. Men cannot evaluate what they do not experience themselves; how could they? We manage all the better to do so since it is dedicated to us.

"Your heart likes to take refuge close to ours. There, it receives love and comprehension, strength and courage. We are the torches illuminating your path, so you say: a point of delight for your heart! For us, dear soul, comforting it is a moment of joy. Do not lose heart; your strength emanates from love that propels you up to ours, in view of true bliss. You are not abandoned. Remain confident, as you have our surest support."
