Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Tuesday, October 21, 2008 – 10:00 a.m.

Your life is not ordinary – which you already know. Your heart is the receptacle of love; you generously redistribute it as you receive it.

"This son is a godsend; you know how precious he is to us. Therefore, you should humanly grant to him the treasures contained in your heart, without restraint. Such treasures are invaluable in this world. From life to life, they constitute the only goods that are free from any fluctuation. They sometimes develop into nice stories, serving the Divine. Take what life offers you, my daughter. It holds surprises until the end; it is generous in this aspect, as far as you are concerned. Do your level best, and always love us unreservedly. We value your generosity in serving us and, especially, in loving us.

"We bless those who appreciate you and support you on this very difficult path of yours.

"You have made your life an ode to divine love; therefore, please love us above all!"
