Saturday, April 4, 2009 – 10:00 a.m.

We have lingered at length over this story of Kamlesh, but it is important.

You are rightly surprised by our insistence, but that is how it must be. You have understood for a long time that everything cannot be said – you are wise. Facts of this nature cannot be revealed in advance; keep this heart available and trustful, my daughter. We watch over your destiny. However trying it may be in this lifetime, it is full of grace.

What is one life in this world? Such a small thing, and so little time compared to eternity. Be surrendered to divine Providence; it acts for the good. Your destinies – yours and this boy's – are interconnected; that is the way it is.

Babuji

An additional step is taken on your painful path. Soon, only the good aspects of this meeting will be remembered, along with the actions they will generate in the future. Let us unite our hearts in His Infinite love.

S.E.