Whispers from The Brighter World
A Sixth Revelation

Wednesday, October 21, 2009 – 10:00 a.m.

My son is a great and noble soul, involved in materiality and out of step with the grossness of this world. It takes courage in such a case to lead a life deemed normal. The harsh aspects of it are trying, but they are otherwise edifying for the establishment in this world of a spiritual way like ours.

My daughter, you are suffering from not being able to help your Master more with the events of his daily life. Such would not change his life. Even if your special gifts were thus used, that would not change anything and would encourage many 'sighted people' to come forward to him every day.

Rest assured we help him greatly through this process. You give your energy with so much love in answering our call through this correspondence of love. You consider it essential in your life; it takes precedence over any other matter. Do not doubt it, my daughter. He expects these special messages; they put a balm on his heart. Be at peace. You are doing your best, and my son, your Beloved Master, appreciates it.

This is not [your] personal message; please forward it, won't you?
