Whispers from The Brighter World
A Sixth Revelation

Monday, May 3, 2010 – 10:00 a.m.

My blessed son,
You are forging ahead and assuming the Mission's heavy responsibilities; this requires a strength which few possess.

Your wings open out, flying over time; events pass and often leave little trace. Within our Mission, things sometimes take on a disproportionate importance, and yet destiny puts in place what needs to happen; that's the way it goes. The divine will, ultimately, expresses itself and brings about the required changes to a given situation. 'Doesn't all have its raison d'être?'.

The destiny of our Mission is in the making; it is opening up to the reality of the present time and especially to that of the future. So many things must change; we must put in place solid structures that can withstand the test of that which is in the offing: a different future in many respects. Nothing lasts on Earth; it is in the nature of things. Human beings must prepare for some serious changes; such is life. Our Mission is moving ahead, according to the higher will. Therefore, we too should be in a state of surrender towards it.

Be at peace, in spite of everything. You are doing what has to be done; this is the strength that characterises you.

We love you infinitely, our dear, great and chosen son.
