Whispers from The Brighter World
A Sixth Revelation

Saturday, May 29, 2010 – 10:00 a.m.

It is good to motivate our brothers and sisters with inspiring themes[6]. My son has understood well that a union of spiritual forces is creative within its own domain. The progress of the spirit is conducive to the establishment of a better world in times like these which are despairing for many people lost in the maze of materiality.

Blessed are loving hearts. They participate in a redeeming movement, towards which all of us are so eagerly working, for the sake of the human world. It is up to human beings to act at their level, with the means at their disposal. We follow along fully, as they stay in the line of action of our Mission – and its principles – under the blessings of their Master.
