Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World
A Sixth Revelation

Wednesday, September 29, 2010 – 4:00 a.m.

We admire you, you know this, and we feel sorry and unhappy, as we cannot relieve you of the trying torments that overwhelm you.

We are doing everything possible to help you; unfortunately, these actions cannot comfort you as you wish. Our compassion is not creative in that sense; we cannot help you as we would like, and we despair of it, you can be sure.

Our only comfort lies in knowing that all these ills, endured with great courage, halo your weary forehead.

Yet we are constantly by your side, never doubt it. We wish you all possible courage. May our thoughts and continuous blessings give you the strength to endure as a worthy hero of this long epic, throughout which your courage has never wavered, despite all kinds of harsh assaults on your human strength.

Your greatness is emerging a little more each day; we reinforce every feature of it, with all possible love. Your Master is caring and compassionate towards you, continually. May faith keep you, may love carry you, as never before. Great Beings before you weakened at some point in their lives, physically and morally; such is the sad privilege of an incarnation. We are with you in a way that is beyond your imagining.

From your Master who loves you beyond the perceptible, unfailingly; to you, my very dear son, greatly Chosen by God. May our love make you stronger, whatever your difficulties. Live each day as a rare opportunity to serve the Almighty – as you do – and to lead an extraordinary Mission that will make its mark on this century.

We carry you in our own way, which does not meet human expectations, even if one is supremely enlightened – as you are, my dear son.

That is all for now. May peace suffuse your heart and lead you to serenity, in spite of everything, my beloved son.

Babuji