Come and find consolation and regain moral strength with us. Yes, my child, life is hard for you, though it has all the appearances of easiness. Your physical miseries are not very visible, but we know how much you are fighting to keep up your state. You keep taking down these messages; it is a beautiful outcome. We will make sure not to burden you too much, to remain within reasonable limits. You were prepared over a long time for this work. You have always used your gifts to help your fellow man without getting any financial compensation. You gave much around you, and now we use this channel to express ourselves. You lend yourself to this communication with utmost steadfastness; we thank you and bless you... Do not lose heart because of these new problems of health; do what is necessary on your part. We try to help you."
