Whispers from The Brighter World
A Sixth Revelation

Friday, December 17, 2010 – 10:00 a.m.

Nobody is perfect on Earth; this is glaringly obvious. Our aspirants are making progress while doing their best with the potential they have. They are not saints; were all the saints truly saints? This remains to be proven. Moving towards perfection does not mean having attained it. Everyone is doing their level best in this world. Nobody can judge their neighbour. Only God truly sees all hearts, and He acts accordingly.

Having a spiritual Master and following a true process enables one to move forward on this long and difficult path to perfection. This planet is not a place of delights. Life is difficult for everyone, as multiple tests are the lot of every incarnate being, to varying degrees. Not one person is enviable; every life is fraught with its share of trials and disappointments. Such is the purpose of an incarnation, and this is not about to change.

May all be blessed and strengthened on this difficult path.
