Whispers from The Brighter World
A Sixth Revelation

Monday, December 20, 2010 – 10:00 a.m.

As you say, my daughter, the time of final assessment has arrived. The year is coming to an end; was it spiritually satisfactory? How can it be assessed from a human perspective? Reason is not a good guide in this case. Nonetheless, it allows one to take stock and to adjust oneself as best as possible, in terms of better behaviour conducive to one's evolution. Humans are not born perfect. Can they become so? This question cannot be answered here. The purpose of an incarnation is precisely to enable one to grow – but at what price, and by which means? Destiny achieves that which must be. No one can get around it; it is in the order of things. Power on Earth is an illusion. Does it always serve the good? Unfortunately not. The only real power is that of love, of divine inspiration.

A soul haloed with its glory delights our hearts. We are attentive to the suffering of humans; it is appalling to us, but necessary for them, and we must accept it.
