Whispers from The Brighter World
A Sixth Revelation

Friday, December 24, 2010 – 10:00 a.m.

Understanding the true meaning of life is a treasure in a world that is lost in the throes of materiality. Where are the true values, and what do they mean to the many human beings who are subjected to the degrading laws of materiality? How can one detach from its illusory attractions? Blessed are the wise; they can, in many situations, distinguish between good and evil.

Blessed are those who are on their way; they have within them a sacred refuge where vice and vileness are abolished in all their forms.

This approach gives life its true meaning, without obscuring the laws of an incarnation with its many and varied obligations.

Let all be blessed and strengthened during this ending of the year, when assessments are needed in order to more accurately evaluate the time that is passing by – time that cannot be made up.
