Wednesday, December 29, 2010 – 10:00 a.m.

My son will find food for thought in the previous communications. It will be imperative for him to make a choice – not an easy one, but one of great importance. We urge him to go into this deep reflection so that he may better do what needs to be done.

The obvious reality will very shortly unfold for him. We cannot act otherwise; the choice cannot be imposed on him, but it will be the fruit of a deep reflection in which we will inspire him in our own way. The choice can only come from him; he is vested with a power which, for the occasion, must prevail on the material plane. This ultimate choice must be the right one. We will inspire him in due time; there is an aspect which he will find decisive.

'Doesn't everything have its raison d'être?' Through this appointment, he must once again assert his stature as a high-level spiritual Master. A being such as he is subjected to multiple tests; many of us went through this. Through this series of messages, which we want to be kept secret, we mean to help him in our own way. It may not meet his expectations, but the targeted decision will be the highest point of his apostolate in the tradition of the great.

We shower him with love.

Babuji