Whispers from The Brighter World
A Sixth Revelation

Life is like a garden; from sowing to harvest, there is so much work, and yet only the result is to be considered. We sow in people's hearts and monitor what is being achieved under our vigilance. Each case is unique, yet the ultimate goal is always the same; every particle of life follows its own path to reach that goal.

In the infinity of creation, what does a life form represent? Whatever the evolution of the species in question, it is nonetheless nothing much. Has it not been said, 'What are we? A breath, a nothing, and nothing more.' This definition is sufficient in itself. In this vast divine scheme, every manifestation of His power is to be respected in the same way. Life feeds on life; it is in the order of things. God's ways are unfathomable.

One's approach is paramount: respect for creation must guide every action. Contrary to what humans believe, man is not the absolute Master. Unfortunately for their evolution, they cannot admit it. May the full truth prevail in this world.
