Monday, February 2, 2011 – 10:00 a.m.

Birthday of Lalaji Maharaj

My dearest daughter, we know how important this birthday is to you. You grasped its spirit as soon as you joined the Mission. The meeting of our souls was very special; you have not followed us in vain. See the wonderful work that is being accomplished in receiving these messages, and the great accomplishment of our dear Parthasarathi who has made them known in the Mission. These writings are meant to play a very serious and important role in the glorification of our way, which is thus enriched with a priceless treasure. They will defy time and take on more and more importance with the worldwide expansion of this spiritual Mission, so well suited to present and future times. The world is changing; people's minds are opening up – slowly, but irreversibly. May human beings finally understand the realities of life on this Earth and the opportunity given to each of them to move effectively towards the ultimate goal.

May this day, once again, mark a beneficial stage in people's hearts. Its importance goes far beyond the physical and spiritual person of the Master whose birth anniversary is being celebrated. It is sacred and necessary for the expansion of our Mission by virtue of the cosmic charge it generates. May all become aware of this and not neglect these particularly blessed days.

We thank you, my dear daughter, for having opened your heart to us once again. You have our very special blessings.

Lalaji