Whispers from The Brighter World
A Sixth Revelation

Monday, May 30, 2011 – 10:00 a.m.

Your Master is also tired, and yet his soul rejoices. My daughter, you are following him in this divine journey, delighting in his splendour. You are not with him as you would like, but if you were, would you be as much in tune with him as you are now? Such are human beings: they primarily consider the incarnate person – not the divine being, as they should. These contacts create a special bonding of hearts; you are in harmony, free from the surrounding grossness, and most importantly, you are available and receptive to the divine energy which leads you to us. We are attentive to your pain, your suffering, but also to your joys – those of the soul and those provided by some deeds and gestures of well-intentioned people. Life does not offer only pain. Sometimes it gives the best, and then the grateful soul can be thankful and go into a state of rapture, under our blessings.

Whatever the events in life, everything is necessary for the evolution of the being beyond a fleeting incarnation; that is the way it goes.
