My Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday 15 July 2011 – Master's Birthday Anniversary [July 24, 2011]

There are special moments in our Mission: i.e. the Masters' birth anniversaries. They should be red-lettered, as is said informally. In addition, these days are blessed; you cannot imagine the extent to which the anniversaries of each Master in our Mission should be vividly remembered. We are strongly urging that this aspect should not be overlooked; it is critical. Time will pass, but this must remain an obvious fact; it would be a serious breach of the divine laws to ignore it.

"These special days in a spiritual way such as ours are necessary pauses. They allow one and all to make their own assessment, to turn inwards and review every detail of that which, at that stage, can be considered as an intense and constructive spiritual life. Those days are needed more than is believed by the majority of our brothers and sisters who don't really engage in a process of thought and actions representing a spiritual ideal of peace and love. May each one of them ponder over this precise aspect: how can I do better and more for the elevation of my spiritual being?

"Opportunities exist; we offer many of them to all. It is up to everyone to take what is offered to them and make the most of it. Time is running out for all.

"With our special blessings for a very special day."

Babuji Maharaj