My Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, July 17th, 2011- Master's Birthday Anniversary [July 24, 2011]

My dearest son,

"Years pass by and we remain faithful to the process of reverting to you to mark these very important milestones in the life of our Mission. We have elaborated on this subject more extensively in our previous message: all these days should be celebrated with fervour; it is in the interest of the life of a growing spiritual way like ours. Your faithful commitment, your strength of action and the scope of your achievement are important and command our utmost admiration. Each of these anniversaries takes you one step up, and makes the teaching of our way become more essential – an approach critically needed by men. They are advancing in the understanding of mystical phenomena. Rules are different; they do not let themselves be imposed any ideas any more, as was the case in past centuries. This is more precisely an inner calling. The soul longs to find its true nature, truth, beauty, and the joy to participate in the great feast of chosen souls dedicated to helping suffering humanity and freeing it from its chains.

"It is up to each one to follow their inner calling and the strength that leads them to seeking a method to assist them in the appropriate manner.

"On this day that is so important, may all our brothers and sisters look earnestly towards this incarnate and divine Master who is the custodian of the force capable of providing them with utmost help. Our wishes and our love continue to support and guide our beloved son, the repository of our energies and powers in this world.

"To my highly blessed son – Happy Birthday.

"The best to you, my dear Parthasarathi."

Babuji Maharaj