Whispers from The Brighter World
A Sixth Revelation

Tuesday, August 16, 2011 – 10:00 a.m.

Let us stay in a state of lightness, the delight of the soul. In this realm, isn't everything beauty and ecstasy when one has gone beyond materiality?

The heart then flees the grossness of the world. It isolates itself in a place where its true nature can be expressed, where it can feel, and forget anything that is not true joy – this joy that carries one to heights conducive to ecstasy. This word is not too strong; an ardent soul reaches this level with the help of an appropriate guide. Blessed are hearts eager to love, to pursue within themselves a process in which the best can be achieved.

Blessed are those in the sadhana, as they are strengthened in the face of material life with its share of unremitting trials.

May every being in this world find the way to the Eternal.
