Tuesday, August 23, 2011 – 10:00 a.m.

The Medium: Babuji, I can't put up with life any more. What would I do without this profound faith in an elsewhere that is more heartening?

You would do like millions of people who don't have it. Some people have no idea what they are doing; others have an ideal, and they develop themselves in their own way. Diversity characterises this world. Blessed are those who know what is essential – the continuity of life in a different form, beyond an incarnation. How can one be deluded into thinking that there is only one? It is time for humanity to progress and distance itself from teachings that are out of touch with reality.

After major upheavals on this planet, it will be necessary for humans to restart from correct foundations and no longer be constrained by false knowledge. Reality is far more complex than they think, and it holds many surprises for them – good or bad, depending on each person's assessment. The era of darkness is coming to an end; it is up to each one to acknowledge it according to their personal views.

That is the way it goes.

Babuji