Whispers from The Brighter World
A Sixth Revelation

May peace be in your heart! Only this can achieve the best, namely, the delight of the soul in search of that state. These moments of intense communion are purifying and beneficial. They are a prime contribution, unequalled in this quest for the Divine. How could one ignore these unique moments when this very special energy carries the whole being to prodigious heights? It takes much time to understand and accept this need to thus commune at the very source of the Divine. This energy is special; it cannot be identified by these 'scholars' who dissect and analyse everything by human standards. Here, we are far beyond that. No theory can help one to comprehend the 'Impalpable'. One must live it intensely within oneself to really understand it.

Life – for the sake of reaching this state – is it not worth living? Achieving it is not commonplace. Here, we put within the reach of our aspirants the ways and means of bringing themselves to a state that delights the soul. Blessed are those who succeed; they can glimpse the 'divine splendour' for moments that are brief in the face of eternity. But the important thing is to follow this path; it does not disappoint, unlike the deceptive pleasures of material life where everything is an illusion.

That is the way it goes.
