Whispers from The Brighter World
A Sixth Revelation

Thursday, October 20, 2011 – 10:00 a.m.

My daughter, you don't assign any merit to yourself; there lies your strength. Only love guides you and enables you to move forward from day to day, doing what we expect of you. This kind of love provides an uncommon strength. You have the example of your Master, that great Being carried by our energy, who nevertheless is subjected to the heaviness of this world. All of us here admire him and, of course, love him.

How could we not tell him this again and again? Our support encourages him. His role on Earth is trying, yet he assumes it brilliantly, as always. Thus will he carry on, until the end, with the support of his successor, who, one day, will likewise be worthy of our blessings. He will become an increasingly valuable support for his Master, our dearest Parthasarathi, who deserves the best in every respect. Kamlesh is a sensitive being endowed with a hidden force that will work wonders in due time. May our very dear son be at peace. However it may appear, everything is for the best, under our endless blessings.
