Thursday, July 1, 1999 - 10:00 a.m.

Be confident, my child, confidence is essential in everything. Confidence and faith cannot be dissociated. We do not ask you to be saints, to be perfect, [but] only to strive towards this state. We are like attentive gardeners who, in a greenhouse, look after rare and precious species with love. You cannot imagine how much love it takes to bring you to perfection, as well as worries it entailed. We love to see you progressing and are determined to do so; that is our reward. When a soul is advancing on the path and we bring it to the goal, it is a very great joy for us all.

"We will not go any further today; we do not want to make you tired. You should only know that the union of our hearts will persist throughout the day and even beyond. Be at peace."

Babuji