Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, July 2, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

Many great enlightened beings mark an epoch with their influence and do not necessarily leave a teaching that is perpetuated, or disciples. Yes, Ramakrishna protects the Mission – as Vivekananda has told you and as he does himself.

My child, say it, say it always – this leitmotif, 'My God, I love you', is not likely to weary Him. In certain countries, you would be called 'she who loves God.'

The Medium: That is right, Babuji, I have only that to offer. The precious stone God has placed in my heart, and which is called 'Love', is His.

Make sure that this precious stone with a thousand sparkles, a thousand facets, does not remain invisible.

Open the jewel case that conceals it; pure hearts will see it.

The Medium: My God, thank you for all that you give me; forgive me for complaining. Only litanies should come out of my mouth to express my gratitude to you.

Rest as much as possible, we love you.

Babuji