Whispers from The Brighter World
A Sixth Revelation

Friday, March 2, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

Regain serenity; it must dwell in you in spite of everything. You know the refuge, the way to overcome life's ups and downs. You have lived long enough to consider them unimportant.

Life hangs on so little, on a thread, so they say. It is 'a breath, a nothing, and nothing more'; therefore, do not dwell on all this.

Every passing day is an opportunity for each human being to go beyond this world of illusion and to grow spiritually. Various means are offered to them; our way is one of them, depending on their deep aspirations and motivations.

Yes, as noted by this spiritual brother, we are repeating ourselves, but what else can we do! Humans forget so easily and get distracted from the true purpose of life. They are drawn by so many temptations that distract them from their primary objective. May wisdom prevail in each of our aspirants; such is our wish.
