Whispers from The Brighter World
A Sixth Revelation

Saturday, April 7, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

Let your heart open up to the divine splendour; receive it with gratitude and fervour. This is a special gift; it is unequalled in this world of matter. All the human riches cannot match this priceless treasure, so unique is it. Happy and wise are those who maintain within themselves the sacred fire; it opens doors to them that are inaccessible here below unless one holds this key. This key is to be guarded carefully. In this world of illusion, it is good to be able to find refuge in a safe place where there is no deception. On whom can one truly rely on Earth? Many disappointments occur in human relations; this is not new and is not about to end. The one and only true safe haven is there, in this way of the heart, capable of lifting beings to sacred shores. Thus they enter unique places, ones that cannot deceive them. In this unique approach, to open oneself totally to this splendour is a delight for a generous and surrendered soul; it is up to each and every person to involve themselves as it suits them.
