Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, July 15, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

Forget this world in these blessed moments of bliss in which your heart delights. This special communion produces a message in which our hearts express themselves. This is no ordinary means and yet it is not new: all sacred texts of the past were given in this way, and humanity is still benefiting from them, and will continue to do so for a long time without knowing their origin. That does not matter. What matters is that in each new era an appropriate teaching be given to and accepted by the greatest number. A lot of reluctance emerges; how could it be otherwise in this world of illusion where misunderstanding is evident? Never mind. Let us proceed in this system; this is a blessing for open-minded beings capable of assimilating a teaching suited for the new era. Our way cannot stagnate; it must go forward in the conquering of hearts, and not be stopped by the incomprehension of a few. Humans do not always easily accept that which they do not know and which is beyond their understanding in certain aspects. Isn't the main thing to move forward, to progress and lead our aspirants to the gates of the real? Then shall the wonder be accomplished for them — an opening onto reality, one which they do not even imagine. Faith and love are the watchwords here, trust in the system and the incarnate Master, representing a long-standing line of Chosen ones. This is how it is.
