My Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, August 8, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

Let your heart relish these moments of profound peace — is it not a perfect introduction to this contact! The pencil is running on paper, but your soul is in the greatest jubilation. Beginning a day in such a state of fervour opens up attractive prospects despite the moroseness resulting from the fluctuations of life. Many of our candidates proceed in this manner; they capture the best through this morning meditation. In that way, they keep within them the fragrance of a transmission emanating from the divine heart of their Master. Are they aware of the importance of it? Are they available and sufficiently committed to this practice? Some days are more conducive than others to the blossoming of the soul, hence our insistence on attending group meditations and, more so, the large gatherings related to the birthdays celebrated every year.

"Thus is the life of our Mission; the meditations are very important as they provide a very special means of connection which benefits all aspirants. They attract many souls who then also participate in this divine feast. The winning of hearts is the most beautiful and noble feat in this world where so many ugly things happen. Blessed are the pure in heart; theirs is a path of splendour on which the divine power manifests itself unceasingly for the good of the greatest number of people. There lies the goal to be reached; the alliance of the Masters is working towards it. May each one achieve the best according to the aspirations of their soul."

Babuji Maharaj