My Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, August 9, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

See far ahead, think big, very big, go beyond what is tormenting you today — what will remain of it tomorrow! Each day has enough trouble of its own; isn't the main thing for you in this moment the greatness of our Mission and its growing impact in the hearts where these messages now have a special place? From the outset, your Master was able to realise their importance and value. Nothing should be overlooked in such a journey. Words have their own power, a vibration capable of aiming exactly at the right place. Sooner or later on the path of life, all our brothers and sisters go through tests that are sometimes very hard. Faith is their refuge; a living Master ensures its manifestation at human and spiritual levels, but not necessarily as abhyasis would expect it. Some events particularly affect them, this is inevitable. See the current suffering of our beloved great son, your Master; life has never spared him, it is in the order of things. His spiritual greatness does not shield him from turbulence and suffering of all kinds. Masters across time have experienced this firsthand; they can understand better than anyone because they too know what suffering means in all circumstances. Accepting, seeing far beyond and loving above all, offering [one's heart] in a state of surrender, as much as possible — all these elevate the soul to its highest destiny.

"May all our brothers and sisters excel, grow and advance in leaps and bounds to the ultimate goal."

Babuji Maharaj