Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, August 19, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

We are now, more than ever, with our very great son who is so dear to our hearts. His condition is less painful, but his weariness is high; how could it be otherwise! A human being, however spiritually elevated he may be, has limitations in terms of physical stamina.

"His appearance [at the special bhandara of August 15] was brilliant; let us repeat ourselves: he touched the hearts of our abhyasis who are sensitive to his suffering, devoted to his person, and who respect his decisions — which are the best ones for this Mission whose heavenly flag he carries.

"Cohesion, the union of hearts, and faith in this unique system must motivate our brothers and sisters who are carried by the love of the incarnate Master and of all of us here who stand by our dearest Parthasarathi. He has been contributing for so many years to the expansion of our Mission; his extraordinary potential has enabled such success at all levels. The Mission of the future will owe him a lot and will not forget this iconic figure, whatever happens.

"Here, we are as one and we are constantly listening to him, responding to his calls when necessary. So has it always been for each one of us when we were humanly vested with the responsibilities of an incarnate Master. Isn't such communication normal between us? Nothing escapes us here; it is all felt and recorded on the registers of time. Blessed are the pure in heart, devoted and fervent towards their Divine Master — may they be carried and especially blessed."
