Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, August 20, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

Regain serenity, let it suffuse inside you in this blessed moment of contact with our hearts. As they read our comments, our brothers and sisters benefit from this energy; it is subtle and its impacts can be felt sometimes where you least expect them. These writings are charged and they operate at different levels according to each person's receptiveness. Our system operates on different levels of consciousness. That is its privilege: an extended and substantial scope, which is not commonplace. In the future, humanity will open up to knowledge as much as is possible in this world. Humans will move past their current condition and enter a different rhythm, more in line with the vibratory system of the time. Our Mission, quite naturally, will adapt to these changes; everything is planned accordingly. The most advanced beings will lead the way, as it has always been at all levels of consciousness — that is in the order of things. Divine laws provide and are organised according to very precise rules, leaving humans sometimes completely disconcerted. Come what may, our Mission will leave its mark on this Earth; it will be an integral part of an uplifting and liberating system for the human race. May our brothers and sisters of today rest assured: all these changes, although planned for the future, will not happen overnight. It's up to each one to focus on what is essential for them and all will be well under our blessings."
