Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, August 22, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

Relax, focus on this unique moment when your heart is receptive to our comments. How many messages have you written so far? Imagine what the discovery of some of them will prompt in our abhyasis. People's minds are opening up and accepting the reality of inter-world communication. In the West particularly, this fact is overlooked as outrageous materialism sweeps away some essential truths — such is today's world.

"One day, by the force of circumstances, the world will reconsider its views in many areas. Evolving does not mean ignoring facts that have marked humanity since the beginning of known time. Here, our goal is to help our aspirants, to have them advance on the path of knowledge, which does not mean ignoring the realities of the material world. Everything can be harmoniously reconciled, which many brothers and sisters involved in this system are doing. Some of them have been doing so for a very long time. It is beautiful and rejoicing for us to see beings changing. The heaviness of the material world is there, but in spite of that they are moving ahead as best they can. It is not easy to attend to everything simultaneously. Having a job outside and managing a family, with all the possible resulting worries, does not prevent most people from excelling in their spiritual journey. Everyone does what they can according to their aspirations and with a surge of heart conducive to transcendence. What is more beautiful than reaching this state of grace capable of transporting a being to prodigious heights! Let us all work together accordingly. True beauty exists; it is up to each one to discover it in themselves."
