Whispers from The Brighter World

This [esoteric] symbol of the future as proposed for our Mission is already helping, and it will greatly help our abhyasis in the future. They will then understand the true meaning of it. Its vibration will facilitate their interiorisation, which is not negligible. Its possibilities do not stop there. Let time do its work; it will help everyone understand the subject. In this domain, as elsewhere, humans need to adapt to new principles; spirituality does not rule out this established fact. What matters is to forge ahead and to help our brothers and sisters on the path in any way possible. Many are now advancing — their inner state contributes to the situation in which acceleration occurs and transforms their approach to the Divine. We are doing everything possible for this to happen. Nothing should be overlooked in such a matter. Isn't spirituality the noblest purpose in life! This achievement is long-lasting; once again, this has to be emphasised.

What remains, moreover, of the material plane? Beautiful things can be created here below, notably those that help humans or delight them, but isn't the essential thing what is great, beautiful and lasting that is accomplished during the ascent of the soul! The soul follows its path beyond the material world; an incarnation is indeed a step and marks an interval in this grand design for the evolution of each one. May all human beings rise more and more towards the noblest of goals; such is our wish and the purpose of our action here and elsewhere. This is how it is.

Esoteric symbol showing the physical heart and spiritual heart with the central region.

Core of divine energy:

In physics, the core is the central part of an atom, made up of protons and neutrons. There is a vacuum in its centre, known for centuries by mystics and finally detected by scientists, who haven't really identified it.
