Whispers from The Brighter World

The festival of hearts is that which is generated by the love within them. It manifests itself in more than one way. Here, we are in a special context, as it is beyond the common events of human life. This love cannot be defined; it is experienced intensely when a thirsting soul transports a being beyond his human condition. With time and a person's evolution, this thirst grows and permeates the space offered by a fervent heart. Therein lies the supreme refuge; as a human being progresses in his life, he becomes fully aware of it when he is willing to follow this redeeming path. When the time comes for this reality to prevail, the seeker can sense the difference. For him, nothing compares with this quest of the Divine, whose approach is unique and offered to each person according to his inner disposition. Time is short here below; beyond this world, everything is noticed and is recorded in the ledgers of time. These ledgers are of paramount importance since they recount everything that emanates from a being including his slightest behaviours.

"Our system of 'cleaning' offers a way to escape from what hinders a person's progress and makes it heavy. This is important: advancement also entails getting rid of useless things as well as the burdens inherent in the material world, in which it is not easy for humans to move towards perfection. We are helping them according to their needs and the means we have, and we can see that many souls are rising and approaching the banks of the sacred, which are blessed among all. It is up to each one to become aware of a need that sooner or later will be revealed to them. The best to all — from the united Masters."
