Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, September 22, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

Do you know how many messages have been received so far? It does not seem so. They have accumulated over time. All these past years have yielded this heavenly manna that emits a vibration which will be even more valued in the future. The perceptions of our aspirants will be refined; that future, distant yet predictable at this level, will allow humans to progress enormously. Blessed are the pure in heart who are committed to a process capable of raising their level of consciousness; they are thus preparing the future world. It will be uncluttered and thus more open to a higher reality. It is not superfluous to repeat it many times. In the spirit world, everything is possible and it prepares in a certain way that which will take place in the coming centuries.

"Everything is slow on Earth. This pace cannot be changed now as it relates to a broader general movement where order prevails and is inescapable. Highly evolved beings create a vibration more conducive to changes of that magnitude. The arrangement of worlds alone constitutes the most subtle and accurate machinery ever. Many upheavals will occur on Earth without the order being upset on a more general plane. The worlds are strikingly diverse and yet a balance is maintained and generates life on all levels where order prevails against all odds. The elevation of souls is preparation for another conception of life. It is not limited to planet Earth as many still believe — which is sad, but that is how it is.

"May the time come soon when understanding and harmony between people of all faiths will prevail in this world. There is one sole goal to be achieved, and it is unique. We wish strength and courage to all our aspirants, who are carried by our love."
