Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday October 1, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

Enter into silence, absorb our energies; they open the secret door to that space where your heart goes into raptures. This often-repeated introduction facilitates a deep contact capable of generating the best. Such a thirst for the Divine, as manifested in these moments, brings the best to you in the course of the day. The spiritual being awaits these contacts; its thirst is great and leads it to act accordingly. Most of our brothers and sisters feel that appeal deep within themselves, away from human turbulences. Such a spiritual way is full of promise. Many of our abhyasis are advancing imperceptibly but irreversibly on the path they are following, which is capable of leading their innermost being on to the highest way, that which our faithful abhyasis aspire to. What we are proposing is not commonplace; it is a simple method, but in time it offers long-lasting fruits. Climbing a mountain is a long process, but the results can be staggering as the horizon reveals so many prospects.

"The heart has its reasons, and in this area it is the safest guide. Choosing a living Master is a sign of wisdom; he knows that there will be convincing results that are more effective under his guidance. Such an incarnate Master holds the key — the key that is inevitably necessary to go beyond a simple approach, however deep it may be. A stage must be reached, one where the soul can ennoble itself and win over another space, so very promising. Laws cannot be circumvented; following them to the letter leads to bliss — which is the purpose targeted consciously, or not, by all of our brothers and sisters.

"To all of them we wish excellence."
